Thursday, August 18, 2022

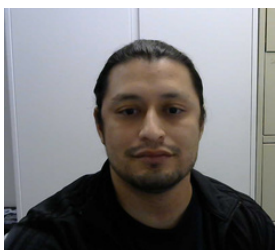

1:00 - 2:30 PM ET

Breastfeeding is recognized and highlighted in the month of August. Studies have demonstrated the value of breastfeeding in the life of both a newborn and the mother alike. Breastfeeding can be very difficult for many mothers and families. Fathers can be a key part in initiating and supporting mothers before and during the breastfeeding period.

This month's Fatherhood webinar will cover the basics of breastfeeding by better equipping Practitioners as they engage fathers in this important and critical post-partum activity. The webinar will cover the topics of anatomy, storage and pumping tips as well as ways the fathers can help support mom during the transitional period.

Register today and invite your colleagues and even your fathers to register. This will be an extended webinar allowing for many of your questions to be answered.

The presenter is Abel DeSantiago who is the Fatherhood Coordinator with the San Antonio Healthy Start Program, a Lactation Consultant and a Father who is currently in the transitional period of breastfeeding. You don't want to miss this webinar.
